CLOKE: A FAMILY BUSINESS THAT'S WITH YOU ALL THE WAY

It's 1966. In downtown Auckland, Grandpa started making clothing. The centre of our world was a tiny warehouse, upstairs on Queen Street. There was a cutting table, some racking for fabric and a few shelves for finished garments. Luxury was a kettle and jar of instant coffee. There was no fridge for the milk, so it didn't really matter how you liked it. If you visited, your coffee was served black and strong.

We may have been tight on space. We may have been surrounded by more mess than we liked. But creativity and quality was never stifled. Pretty soon we began to build a reputation for high quality childrenswear.

Back then we were known as Banbury Cross. As the family grew, so did the range. We got into adult clothing and that seemed to work, so we stopped making the childrens clothing. This adult range was under the Aurora brand. Then hoodies came into fashion so we got into those, under a new brand called Cloke.

It wasn't all smooth sailing and there were some tough times. But families are pretty good at knuckling down, so that's what we did. We made the move south to Invercargill and a few years later, changed everything to Cloke. So that's our only brand now.

As much as some things change, some things stay the same. Grandpa still comes to work every day. If you visit, you can have the coffee however you like it though. There's even a fridge, plus a fancy coffee machine. Just don't ask Grandpa how it works.

Back in mid 2019 we shared our new purpose with friends and business partners. To be honest, it was more of a promise than a purpose. A promise that underscores our commitment to employees, distributors, suppliers, the environment, communities and the journeys and dreams of anyone wearing one of our garments.

It's fair to say the world has changed since then. But what hasn't changed is the need to be with you all the way. In fact, it's needed now more than ever.

So we're sticking with it. We're sticking with our lofty goal of always trying to do the right thing. Not the easy thing or the most profitable. But the right thing.

SUSTAINABLY CLOKE

We might believe in fast service but we don't believe in fast fashion. We want to be Sustainably Cloke and that means taking action.

One of the big initiatives is to use recycled fibers in our garments. We've started this journey already, now incorporating recycled polyester in certain ranges, and plan to keep going further, with other environmental initiatives in the pipeline.

When it comes to getting Cloke from our warehouses to you, we do so as sustainably as possible

- ▶ Recycled Courier Bags are used
- ▶ Cartons are reused where possible
- ▶ Natural cartons are used for everything else (free from harmful chemicals)
- ▶ We recycle and/or reuse everything we can at every Cloke location

In addition to the above, we regularly donate faulty and end-of-line garments to the Salvation Army and other charities.

We can control these factors directly. Yet the apparel industry remains incredibly complex and we're conscious of what happens from the very beginning. That's from a field of cotton waiting to be picked, a paddock full of merino sheep needing shearing, or from the incredibly complex machinery required by man-made yarns. It's a process involving many relationships, spanning multiple continents, languages and cultures.

It gets even more complex when you try and manage the supply chain the right way. Which is precisely what we do.

Our factory code of conduct is based on the 12 principles set out by the WRAP Organisation (Worldwide Responsible Accreditation). These principles include the prohibition of forced labour, child labour, abuse, discrimination; and ensure fair compensation, working hours, environment, and health and safety.

We believe a factory should not only meet these standards 'on paper' but that a culture of care should exist top down.

INCLUSIVE
SIZES

We're committed to inclusivity and making it possible for everybody to find something that fits them comfortably and looks great, so garments are available in an extended size range. With Cloke, everyone in your team or group can share a unified and cohesive look.

For all sizes, the half chest measurements published in this catalogue relate to the garment, not the person. These are measured from a point about 1 cm below the armhole (outside of garment), and have a manufacturing tolerance of +/- 2cm. Measure a garment you love for comparison purposes; however please be aware that there are many variables such as fabric thickness and stretch which can affect the comparison.

Please use the size charts as a guide only, and always obtain sample garments in the correct style for accurate sizing.

Workmanship is 100% guaranteed for 100 days.

In the unlikely event a manufacturing fault should show up within 100 days, please return the garment and we'll repair or replace it free of charge*.

*Excludes normal wear & tear.

IN STOCK & READY TO BRAND

Cloke garments are stocked in Auckland & Invercargill warehouses. It's (mostly) all available for overnight delivery to wherever you are in New Zealand.

Orders placed before 3pm are usually dispatched the same day, with standard overnight delivery. Rural deliveries generally take another day or two.

There's no minimum order, so it's easy to get that extra garment for the new team member or colleague.

We don't simply supply blanks. We provide garments 'ready to brand'. The difference is in the materials and design. Everything has been crafted to create a canvas that's designed to be embellished. They're designed to take prints and be embroidered. They're designed to look good and last. You might not see the difference when you open a box of Cloke garments...but you'll see it when you brand them.
